Is the text well structured?	The text cohesively transitions from point to point, using transition words, without veering off to anything unrelated	The text transitions from point to point, with some small fiction, or makes one small unrelated comment	The transitions from point to point are jarring but make some level of sense overall, or the text spends a weird amount of time on something unrelated.	The transitions from point to point are nonsensical and difficult to follow, or cover topics that are not where closely related.
Does it properly answer the prompt?	The question is answered with great details.	The prompt is mostly covered, except for some smaller details.	The text interacted with the prompt but missed some crucial pieces of it.	The prompt was not properly covered, though they did put in some level of effort.
Is the text persuasive?	The text was persuasive and defended their argument through built-out evidence or rhetoric.	The text made a clear attempt to be persuasive, but the evidence was improperly presented or thought out.	The text presented evidence in hopes of persuading the reader but did not use persuasive language	The text provided no persuasive argument at all for the topic.

Things that need to be evaluated by rubric:

this journal does interact with the prompt but does miss the actual prompt

this section does need a lot of work, there is evidence and the back of the journal that tries to persuade, but my group did i forgot to add persuasive language

1) Abigail- she's selfish because she blamed Tituba for making them dance in the woods. She did this to protect herself.

2) The girls- they are scared of Abigail and rather copy her than speak up for themselves.

3) Tituba- she was blamed for witchcraft, even though she was a very quiet, independent person.

4) Mr. Putnam- self serving, greedy man who is willing to destroy others but felt Salem citizens didn't give him the respect he deserved.

5) John Proctor- John is a pedophile. He was in a conflict with his young daughter in a sexual way. He did this because he felt unprescribed with Elizabeth.

6) Elizabeth Proctor- strong Christian, loving mother and loving wife, but struggled to trust John after the affair.

7) Francis- Reverend Nurse- Very old, Rebecca Nurse did not accept for being a witch, but she would admit it was charged with the murder of Putnam baby.

8) Reverend Hale- a calm person and is willing to fight against any witchcraft allegations.

9) Giles Corey- old man, friendly, but not smart because he decided to die instead saying the truth.

10) Reverend Parris- very power hungry, wanted things to go his way- "his way or no way" - powerful because he thought something was gonna happen to him.

The old ones

Salem

On June 6, 1692 Abigail and the girls got caught during the woods. Mr. Parris caught the girls dancing. Once everybody found out about them dancing, Tituba got blamed for the girls actions. At 3:30pm on June 14, 1692, John Proctor had to tell Abigail that they are going to end everything that had gone because he felt bad for his wife Elizabeth. Elizabeth was sick and really couldn't do much which led John to cheat on her. Cheating on your wife because she is sick and can't do much is not a good reason to cheat. Elizabeth is a very strong woman for actually staying with John after he cheated. January 26th 1693, Rebecca Nurse went to jail for being accused of being a witch. She was also charged for the murder of Putnam baby, which got her killed on February 1st. Everybody really didn't think Rebecca killed their child, so what was Mrs. Putnam's real reason for accusing her February 28th?

Giles Corey was pressed to death with rocks for refusing to put himself on the court. Just because he didn't put himself on their side doesn't think he is a very smart man because of his decision. On April 11th, multiple people hung their last day, most people celebrated and some were upset.

The new one

Timothee, Mattia, Luis, Tradon, Amgad, Giah, Chester Bennington, All Verse 1:

Let us be heard, those who are accused, our fate was sealed, by false accusations and lies revealed. Hysteria spreads like wildfire, those who believe and those who follow

Chorus:
Rebecca Nurse, a woman pure
Accused by spectral evidence, unsure
John Proctor, a man of strength and will
Unjustly imprisoned, we protest still

Chorus:
Rebecca Nurse, a woman pure
Accused by spectral evidence, unsure
John Proctor, a man of strength and will
Unjustly imprisoned, we protest still

Bridge:
We stand together, united in faith
We will not bow to this unjust state
We demand our freedom, we will not yield
For we are innocent, our innocence sealed

Chorus:
Rebecca Nurse, a woman pure
Accused by spectral evidence, unsure
